He was in the battle at Lindly's [sic, Lindley's] Mill, on Cain [sic, Cane] Creek of Haw River, Orange County, N. C. And before he was fit for duty he received a verbal Message from Col. Robert Griffiee [?], whose command he was then under, that his services was [were] no longer required by the United States. John T. Lewis and Samuel Cherry two of the Commissioners named in the commission hereto prefixed, being first Sworn agreeable to the instruction in the said commission given after which they have proceeded to examine such witnesses as were brought before them touching and respecting the claims of John Brownlow of the district and State aforesaid to a pension from the United States.

JOHN BROWNLOW

On the 29th day of May in the year of our Lord One thousand seven hundred and Eighty One I did enter into of the service of the United States as a Volunteer under the command of Captain Joseph Rosser Of Col. Guilford Dudley's Regiment, the expedition being from Chatham Courthouse No. Ca. against the Tories who were in Orange County No. Ca. under Command of Cols Hector McNeil & David Fanning (both notorious in said State). The Battle in which I had the misfortune to receive my wounds took place between our party and the aforesaid Tories on the 13th day of September 1781 at a certain place in the said County of Orange Called Lindley's Mill on Cane Creek—In the said Battle I received four wounds—three of them on my head all of which broke the skull , and thirteen pieces of the Skull bone larger & smaller were taken from one of the said Wounds on my head—the other wound was on my wrist of the left arm which in a good disabled it. I was for Twelve months in a desperate situation with the said Wounds and for most of the time was thought past recovery by my friends. On account of the Wounds in my head I am frequently rendered by my state of mind unable to attend to my domestic concerns though they are very limited—and I have never yet received any compensation for service or any support from Government, though a very poor man, and rendered helpless by other infirmities than those arising from my Wounds—

In the year 1781 I lived within one mile of John Brownlow the Deponent in the foregoing affidavit. I know well of Brownlow's going out in the expedition mentioned in his Statement for I was with him on Sunday before the battle in which he was wounded, (at their camp). I saw him on his return from the battle and in the precise situation as to wounds as is mentioned in his affidavit – I was his neighbor until after his recovery and much of my time with him, and often assisted in pressing his wounds, and saw bones which came from the wound in his head. – I was very intimately acquainted with Brownlow both before and after he received his wounds, and it is my opinion and also that of many of his acquaintance that his intelligence were impaired by his wounds. During my acquaintance with Brownlow he supported a very fair character.

My Dear Sir

Beaverdam 29th July 1820 [could be 29th Jany 1820]

Tutt's [Benjamin Tutt] & Bowie's [John Bowie] Companies originally belonged to the 5th South Carolina Provincial Regiment Commanded by Colonel Isaac Huger & as well as I recollect about the 5th of February 1777 the Regiment was placed on the Continental Establishment when these two companies were detached from the Regiment & a new one raised commanded by Captain John Moore they were called Independent Companies & were to consist of 100 men each they were detached from the line at a particular Instance of Mr. John Rutledge who was then Governor & by whom the Officers were commissioned and under whose immediate command and the Succeeding Governors of the State we continued to act until the end of the war & such General Officers as we were occasionally ordered to obey, when we were taken from the line we were promised and did Actually receive the same Bounty of Money & Land, Rations, pay and Cloathing as the Continental man & Officers received subject to the same Articles of War and liable to march to any part of the Continent where we might be ordered by the Commander in Chief which was the case at the Siege of Savannah & on different Occasions after the Indians on the frontier of Georgia. We considered ourselves to all Intents and purposes on the Continental establishment but by being taken from the line. We lost our ranks in it and were in rank in the Companies only, and as an incontestable proof that we were considered so by the Continental Officers, Captain Bowie's Company was on duty once in Charleston, one of the men transgressed, he ordered a Ct Martial but there being only the other Lieutenant and myself he applied to the Captain of the 3rd South Carolina Continental Regiment who sent a Lt Called West of that Regiment to make up a court, upon the whole were my circumstances such as to warrant an application for a pension I should consider myself much better Entitled to it than many who got it. As to this particular man Clayborne I know nothing of his circumstances but this I know I enlisted him when I did so I promised him all that the Continental Soldiers received agreeable to my recruiting orders, these things he did receive until the end of the war, this I also know that for the three years he served there was not in the American Army a more obedient soldier. I believe I can safely say he was never once under Guard, at the expiration of the three years he was with myself and a number of others including Colonel Pickens' Regiment of 400 men surrendered by General Williamson [Andrew Williamson] the commanding General to General Cunningham & Captain Pearis at White Hall in Abbeville District. This statement which I am sure is a correct one you are at liberty to make use of as you please which with best wishes for a continuation of your health concludes me, yours very truly,

S/ Samuel Earle¹

I served with John Brownlow in the same company in the expedition mentioned in his affidavit. I was taken prisoner before the battle in which he was wounded. I saw him sometime after the Battle and his wounds were desperate, he was for a long time in such a state with his wounds that his life was despaired of, I know that several bones were taken from his skull, I was his near neighbors before the battle took place in which he was wounded, and the said Brownlow was esteemed before receiving the said wounds and he was accounted a man of sound intellects.
