State of Georgia, County of Monroe

On this twelfth day of march in the year 1834 before the honorable the Superior Court of said County of Monroe personally appeared in open court John Crawford a resident of said and State of Georgia aged seventy-four years, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provision made by the act of Congress passed June 7, 1832 – That he enlisted in [the] Army of the United States in the regular service on the second day of March in the year 1776 and was mustered into service on that day under Captain Chesley Bostwick, and served in the first Regiment of the Georgia line under the following named officers – General Lachlan Macintosh, Colonel Joseph Habersham commandant of the Regiment above named, Major John Cuthbert of the same Regiment, Chesley Bostwick Captain of the company to which he belonged who after the expiration of about six months according to applicant's recollection, was succeeded by Captain De Lepaine [Delaplaine]—These were the general field and company officers under whom he served – He resided at the time of his enlistment in what was then St. Paul's Parish now Columbia County in the State of Georgia. He served the whole of his time in the State of Georgia. After his enlistment, he marched from St. Paul's Parish through Augusta to Savannah, arrived at the latter place in March 1776. The company to which he belonged was stationed there until January 1777. Applicant was then marched with a part of his company and detachments from other companies to Fort Barrington on the Altamaha River under Lieutenant Colonel Harris, remained there two months – and marched to Sunbury [Sunbury] – there went on board a public vessel called the “Washington Galley” commanded by Captain Newriagate [? or Newnegate?] and which together with two other Galleys, to wit, the “Congress” and “Lee” were under the command of Commodore Bowen – sailed from thence to the mouth of St. Mary's River and up said River about 6 miles and landed, marched thence to Savannah by land and arrived in Savannah in June 1777 having crossed the Altamaha at Fort Barrington. He obtained his discharged the day after his arrival in Savannah, viz. on the 28th day of June 1777, having served in the regular army one year three months and 26 days. His term of enlistment was 12 months, but being out on service, he could not obtain his discharge until his return to Savannah. His discharge has long since been lost. He next entered the service of the United States as second lieutenant in the militia of Georgia in the month of October 1777 under the following named officers: Colonel Benjamin Few, Captain Charles Crawford and Isaac Skinner, first lieutenant. He resided at the time of his entering the militia in what was then Richmond but now Columbia County in the State of Georgia. We marched under Colonel Few from Richmond to Burke jail and was in the battle fought at that place with the enemy under the command of Colonel Brown [Thomas Brown]. He then returned to Augusta and was immediately compelled to flee to South Carolina for refuge from Colonel Brown and his Myrmidons who obtained possession of Augusta and the adjacent country. He remained between two and three months in South Carolina when he returned to Augusta upon the vacation of that place by Colonel Brown. He then marched under Captain Leonard Marbury who commanded a company of Cavalry down Savannah River about 50 miles. There, hearing of the defeat of General Ash [sic John Ashe] by Colonel Brown we returned to Augusta. We then marched to Savannah under Captain Charles Crawford, was engaged in the attack upon that place – was taken a prisoner by the British and confined eight weeks in a prison ship. At the expiration of which he was released in an exchange of prisoners. He then went home and remained there about two months. He then went to Augusta and was at the first siege of that place in September 1780. He fled from the State to North Carolina for refuge. He there joined Colonel Morgan [Daniel Morgan] and was with him in the battle of King's Mountain. He then joined the Army under the command of General Sumpter [sic, Thomas Sumter] and was in the battle of Blackstock's on Tiger [sic, Tyger] River. He then returned to Georgia in March 1781 and entered the militia as a private under Captain William Lucas in a Regiment commanded by Colonel Elijah Clark [sic, Elijah Clarke], he remained at Augusta until that place was taken. He then marched to Savannah January 1782 under Captain Thomas Townsend and remained in service until April 1782 when he was discharged. Applicant states that he served in the militia of Georgia according to his recollection two years as second lieutenant and about two years as a private. He further states that it is not in his power at this time to prove his service as second lieutenant and as a private in the militia by any other testimony than his own oath. He was born in the year 1759 on the 16th day of July. There is a record of his age but not in his possession. He was born in Amherst County State of Virginia. Since the revolutionary war he has resided in the Counties of Columbia, Lincoln and now resides in the County of Monroe, State of Georgia.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and he declares that his name is not on the pension roll of any agency in any state.
