[Methodology: Spelling, punctuation and/or grammar have been corrected in some instances for ease of reading and to facilitate searches of the database. Where the meaning is not compromised by adhering to the spelling, punctuation or grammar, no change has been made. Corrections or additional notes have been inserted within brackets or footnotes. Blanks appearing in the transcripts reflect blanks in the original. A bracketed question mark indicates that the word or words preceding it represent(s) a guess by me. The word 'illegible' or 'indecipherable' or 'undeciphered' appearing in brackets indicates that at the time I made the transcription, I was unable to decipher the word or phrase in question. Only materials pertinent to the military service of the veteran and to contemporary events have been transcribed. Affidavits that provide additional information on these events are included and genealogical information is abstracted, while standard, 'boilerplate' affidavits and attestations related solely to the application, and later nineteenth and twentieth century research requests for information have been omitted. I use speech recognition software to make all my transcriptions. Such software misinterprets my southern accent with unfortunate regularity and my poor proofreading skills fail to catch all misinterpretations. Also, dates or numbers which the software treats as numerals rather than words are not corrected: for example, the software transcribes "the eighth of June one thousand eighty six" as "the 8th of June 1786." Please call material errors or omissions to my attention. Researchers should not rely solely on the transcripts but should review the originals for themselves. These transcripts are intended as an aid to research, not to be used in lieu thereof.]

That he was drafted in or about the spring of 1778 for the term of two months and served at that time under Capt. Daniel DuBose at Seewee Bay [Sewee Bay] and then returned home. Then I was drafted again about two months before the siege of Charleston¹ began and marched to the Ten mile House near the city of Charleston under the command of Capt. James Gregg --Soon after our time of service expired. I then volunteered and marched into Charleston under the command of Capt. James Gregg to continue during the siege. A few days before the surrender of Charleston our commander proffered to land us in the night above Hadley's Point [sic, Haddrell's Point], from which place we made our escape home. I remained there at Home until I understood General Gates [Horatio Gates] was on his way to Camden, when myself and many others embodied ourselves without any commander to join General Gates and pursued the enemy, but hearing that Col. Hugh Giles was raising a Regiment of volunteers at Giles Bluff on Pedee River, we repaired to him, at [one or more words missing as a result of a ink blot] -- we remained a few days [one or more words missing as a result of an ink blot] Marion [Francis Marion] came to us (who afterwards became a general) we then crossed the River at Ports Ferry and commenced to build a redoubt when we heard the Tories were embodying at a place called blue Savannah [September 4, 1780]² we marched immediately and dispersed them, killing some & taking some prisoners, they informed us that there was a large body of Tories about ten miles off, we marched and dispersed them -- From thence we marched to the White Marsh in North Carolina where we lay a few weeks, we marched from there to Black Mingo near Georgetown in South Carolina at which place we defeated the Tories [September 28, 1780]³ and took 26

Watson of the British besides a number of skirmishes with the enemy, in charges & reconnoitering parties some of which we took the whole or nearly so.

State of South Carolina Darlington District

On this 24th day of October in the year while Lord 1833 personally up beard in open Court before Richard Gantt one of the Associate Judges of the Court of Common Pleas & Sessions held for the District & State aforesaid George McCall a resident of Darlington District & State aforesaid aged seventy three years who being duly sworn according to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provisions made by the act of Congress passed June 7th 1832 viz.

That he was drafted into the service of the United States in the spring of 1777 and served under Capt. Daniel DuBose in Col. Giles's [Hugh Giles'] Regiment two months as a private. That he was again drafted in 1779 & served under Capt. James Gregg we were marched into Charleston expecting to be besieged but the British re-embarked and went off -- out two months as a private -- That in 1780 he was again drafted and under Capt. James Gregg (marched to the ten mile house) who was under Major Thornly [Robert Thornley] we remained there to the end of our term -- two months -- when the British under Sir H. Clinton appeared off the harbor they proposed our volunteering for the defense of Charleston -- which was readily done by every man. I remained in Charleston until the surrender appeared inevitable when it was proposed that those who preferred risking their escape from Charleston to surrender to the British should be allowed to do so. I accepted the proposition with many others who were sent from Charleston to Haddrell's Point in the night by tens -- I escaped -- and remained at home until in July or early in August hearing that Gen. Gates had crossed the Yadkin [River] I & four other young men agreed & immediately set out up the Pedee [River] to join him to proceed to Camden -- we had gone but a few miles when we heard that Col. Giles was raising volunteers for that purpose -- we altered our plan turned down to Giles Bluff where we joined Col. Giles -- remained there about 2 or 3 weeks -- in the meantime Col. Marion came to us -- we got one or 2 old field pieces crossed the Pedee & began a redoubt -- but we heard a party of Tories had collected at Williamsburg meeting house -- we left our redoubt & went to attack them -- on our way we met a Major James -- who had taken the waiting man of the commander by whom we learned that the party was composed of British soldiers, that Gates was defeated,⁶ we then recrossed Pedee & the next day hearing of some Tories at the Blue Savannah⁷ we marched all night, came on them about twilight routed & took prisoners a whole party -- from the prisoners we learned that eight miles from there -- they were that morning to have been joined by 150 men more -- we proceeded to their camp arrived about 10 o'clock & routed them -- & then returned to our redoubt (began) from thence I went with General Marion & about 70 men to White Marsh in North Carolina where we lay some time -- there I was put under command of Major William Benson (as a trooper) [sic John Benson] he acting as Capt. & returned to South Carolina -- attacked and defeated a party of Tories at Black Mingo Bridge⁸ -- again retreated to the borders of North Carolina keeping a lookout for, & harassing the Tories -- then crossed to the West side of Pedee & in skirmishing with the British got our Capt. Benson killed. I then joined John Baxter who was raising a troop of volunteers -for I dare not be at home for fear of being taken by the Tories -- until the truce between Marion & Gainey -- after which I was two months at home & two months with General Marion -- I was under Capt. Baxter until he was promoted -- then under John T. Green until he was promoted -when the command of the company was given to Richard Green under whom I served to the close of the war -- two months in service & two out. I was in most of the Battles fought by Marion -- I was at the siege of Fort Watson⁹ on a mount at Scotch Lake -- at the siege of Fort Motte¹⁰ & the taking of it -- also in 4 separate actions with General Marion against Col. Watson in 8 days -- & at Quinby¹¹ when Col. Baxter was wounded -- and in all 13 or 14 sieges -- actions -- charges or skirmishes during the war.
